Mr. Ellett Delivers the Welcoming Address at Memphis

And Does so in his Chair During Cleveland's Response.

Rain Obscures Judge Jackson Over Sunday.

The Presidential Tour.

Memphis Oct 14 Judge H T Ellett was to make the welcome address to the president this morning and the committee who were to escort him were on hand at the depot some time before the train arrived. The incident occurred just as the president elected has reminisced in response to the judge's welcome address. The day was not unfavorable when the spot in the centre of the platform where the speaker's stand was erected was an exposed one. Judge Ellett stood for a time with uncovered head. As the president was escorted to the platform Mr Bryant of the presidential party, a section of silver and received with the unfortunate gentleman at the president was escorted to the platform Mr Bryant of the presidential party, a section of silver and received with the unfortunate gentleman at the president was escorted to the Cotton Exchange balcony. Judge Ellett delivered the welcoming address. The other aspects of the occasion tallied and combined to make the affair extraordinary in all respects. The decorations exhibited everywhere were more elaborate and general than those of any place yet visited by the president, with the possible exception of Madison, and it was remarked that twice as many people were on the streets as ever seen before in Memphis.

Judge Ellett first presented Mr. Cleveland with the ceremonial freedom of the city. He then addressed the president eloquently:

"You have recently participated in a celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the formation of the constitution of the United States, and you have beheld multitudes of our fellowmen flocking from the circumference to the spot where that work was fashioned and renewing the vows of fealty at the shrine of that earliest monument of human wisdom. I may say, that the Southern heart was full in sympathy with that interesting occasion, and that nowhere in all the land was there more loyalty to the constitution of the United States and to the government founded thereon among the people of the southern states. Differences of opinion as to its true theory and proper construction on some points existed from the first discussion, and the controversy has been angry and bitter. One great principle underlies the whole of the controversy, and out of it the question of constitutional interpretation was regarded by the southern people as so vital to their rights and liberties that they committed their solution to the arbitration of arms. But, Mr President, they have bowed to the stern decrees until they have in a frank and manly spirit accepted the final settlement of all questions, and they have since addressed themselves with rare courage fortitude and calmness to accommodate themselves to their new conditions, to restore their broken fortunes and to contribute so far as possible to the general prosperity and happiness of the entire country. As one practical result of the belief by the conflict the theory of the right of a state to withdraw from the federal compact was overthrown, and the indestructibility of the American union was established on the firmest foundation. The chief element of discord has been removed for ever, and such questions will continue to arise as which men may differ and differ honestly, but is confined beyond appeal to the causes and grievances that led to the action of the general government. Within the pale of the union and under the forms of established gov-

The speaker closed with a graceful tribute to Mr Cleveland. The president in receiving sketched the triumph of Memphis in overcoming the ravages of the late pestilence, closing as follows:

"The patriotic sentiment expressed on your behalf by your honored fellow citizen in a address of welcome, I am sure, will be generously responded to by your countrymen of the United States. They want, I believe, rest from their labors, and they know the welfare of our country is only to be secured by the closest union in sentiment and purpose as well as in name. The material interests of our people are too great and intelligent to be sacrificed or impaired by selfish agitation or passion, which should not exist. They only insist that all questions of the arbitrament of arms between sections has been made forever impossible and enforced obedience to the laws past your ears our nation's history, which you rightfully regard as the important factor in your prosperity and future welfare, and which I believe is universally recognized as a guarantee of governmental protection and improvement. To Memphis as to every other city on the banks of the Mississippi the development of this vast highway of commerce is of essential importance, and it would be interested in having every other proper work of the same character considered upon their merits. Local and sectional questions sometimes quicken the zeal of their character and often prevent its dominion. I desire to thank the kind citizens of Memphis and the neighborhood my thanks for their kind greetings with the wish that they may enjoy prosperity and happiness as the result of their activity and enterprise."

When Judge Ellett sank into his chair after the conclusion of his address, some little confusion followed. Dr Bryant, assisted by General Vilas and Colonel Looney, caught him as he was about to fall to the platform. Several gentlemen of the entertainment committee who were close, aided in the efforts that were being made to restore the unconsciousness. Three or four of the Selmes rushed there first and did all in their power to revive him. Water was thrown on his face and stimulants administered. Dr Bryant and Dr Bryant and others worked with the greatest anxiety for a few seconds for fear without avail. President Cleveland was not unconcerned at the efforts that were being made to revive the venerable judge, with evident sympathy, commented with which Mrs Cleveland seemed deeply interested.

The presidential party had left the platform when Dr Bryant coolly approached the lady and turning to an accompanying remarked, "She's in the president." Pressing to an inquiry, What is the matter with Judge Ellett? Dr Bryant responded, "He fainted and has not yet recovered consciousness." This was said to relieve the shadow of alarm that might otherwise have been created by the fact that the train did not know. The immense multitude who witnessed the incident did not realize that both had come. They made a race for the exposition building, where a reception was being held, leaving to the few friends of the judge the sad duty of carrying the remains across the street whence they were soon afterwards taken, where he laid left a few hours before to welcome President Cleveland on behalf of the southern people.

Memphis October 15—The presidential reception to the public in the hall of the convention change was about one hour in length. From the exchange the party was escorted to their train and at 2 p m left for Nashville.

Nashville Tenn, October 15—The presidential train was on time here. Information has just been conveyed to the president of the death of Judge Ellett, and is greatly shocked. He expressed the warmest sympathy with the bereaved family. Dr. Bryant says he found no sign of life when he reached the unfortunate man's side, but he said nothing until he was relieved a few moments later by two local physicians. To these he said the judge was dead.

Nashville, October 15.—At McKenzie Tenn, the president, Mrs. Cleveland and the postmaster general actually got left, the train starting gaily off for Nashville without them. McKenzie is at the crossing of two roads, and the train had been switched from one to another on a siding. When the train reached the station the mayor came aboard and told the president a platform had been erected and the people were waiting to hear and see him. The president said since they had made no preparations he would go out and show himself, but would not talk. Accordingly he and his wife and Col Vilas alighted, while the train was being switched. The railroad people put the general passenger car in between the rear coach and the locomotive train, and when this was done started right off from the opposite side of the depot, the members of the railroad supposing the president and party to be aboard. The train had gone a mile down the steep grade before the manager could be reached, and then, owing to the light engine and heavy train, it took quite a little time to back up to the station again. The party came aboard laughing, but the president said for the future he would confine himself to getting off at places indicated in the programme.

Along the road great crowds were collected to see the passing train, and the usual demonstrations were made. At quarter past nine the train reached Brentwood, six miles from Nashville, where ex-Senator now Judge Jackson and his brother, General W. H. Jackson, entered the car and welcomed the president's party. The president, Mrs Cleveland and Colonel Lamont entered the carriage of General Jackson to become his guests till Monday morning, while the postmaster general and wife, Dr Bryant and Mr Bissell accompanied the ex-senator. Other members of the party proceeded to Nashville on the train and were quartered at the Maxwell house. Mr. John Hinman, of New York, the well known financier, by invitation joins the presidential party here and will remain with them until their arrival at Atlanta.

The Yellow Fever Plague.

Washington, October 15. Surgeon General Hamilton has received a telegram from the board of health of Putnam county, saying another fugitive from Tampa has died of yellow fever, this time at Interlachen. The secretary of the treasury has also received a message from the governor of Florida asking such aid as can be given. The secretary has replied that orders have been issued for the hospital service to render all the aid deemed expedient.

Jacksonville, Fla., October 15.—Three new cases of fever at Tampa today and two deaths.

A Fatal Accident.

Santa Fe, N. M., October 15.—Major Pessels, manager of Z. Staab & Bros. wholesale house, died today of concussion of the brain caused by being thrown from his horse yesterday and striking on his head. The accident occurred on the bridge across the Santa Fe river. Major Pessels was widely known as a successful business man. He will be buried with Masonic honors.

Judge Gary's Renomination.

Chicago October 15.—A renomination by acclamation was this afternoon tendered Judge Gary, of anarchist trial fame, by the silk stockings or gaudy green wing of the democratic party in Chicago. Judge Gary is a republican. Last week he was named without opposition as the candidate of the short hair or Kern Lawler democratic faction.

Assignment.

Belleville, October 15.—A deed of assignment of the Niobrara Cattle Co., which did business at the National Stock yards in East St Louis has been filed in the county recorder's office, signed by H L Newman, president. Edward L Thomas, a prominent Belleville attorney, is named agent. The document does not disclose anything with regard to the liabilities of the company—or, the assets of its holders.

THE FIRST GUN.

Republican Primaries Pass Off With But Little Interest.

Light Votes Polled in All the Wards of the City.

The Result at Manitou, Colorado City and Florissant.

Some Speculations Regarding the Result of the Convention.

The republican precinct primaries for the election of delegates to the county convention which meets next Saturday were held throughout the county yesterday. In this city very little interest was manifested in the primaries and in every ward there was only one ticket and that received comparatively no opposition. In the precincts outside of the city justice of the peace, constable, road overseer were nominated. District of the Peace Thomas Shideler who was elected in this fall, was renominated without any opposition, except in the third ward, where Mr Charles R Robinson received six votes.

The only contest which materialized in the primaries was that for road overseer. Mr Thomas Orr, the present incumbent, was defeated for renomination by Mr Eugene W Roberts.

The total number of votes polled in the wards of the city was 132, 94 less than the total number cast at the primaries last year. Yesterday's vote was distributed as follows:

First ward	24
Second ward	20
Third ward	23
Fourth ward	25
Total	132

The vote for delegates in the various wards was as follows:

FIRST WARD.

F. E. Dow 24, J. F. Humphrey 24, John Campbell 24, A. Sutton, 24 Matt France 24, E. S. Joslyn 23, M. L. DeCoursey 1.

SECOND WARD.

Giles Crissey 23, John Potter 23, Charles W. Lowe 23, J. F. Seldomridge 23, M. Kennedy 23, W. R. Roby 23.

THIRD WARD.

D. B. Fairley 32, W. R. Thompson 32, J. C. Brinkerhoff 32, F. W. Howbert 32, J. W. D. Stovell 32, John Courter 32.

FOURTH WARD.

J. A. Himebaugh 22, D. M. Ross 22, G. H. Perry 22, A. G. Draper 22, W. B. Jenkins 22, N. W. Hock 21, Charles W. Collins 21.

The vote for justice of the peace was as follows:

	Roberts	Robinson
First ward	24	0
Second ward	20	0
Third ward	23	0
Fourth ward	25	0
Total	112	0

For constable, Mr. J. W. Chipman, who is at present serving on the police force, received 122 votes, the total number cast.

The following is the vote on road overseer:

	Roberts	Orr
First ward	15	9
Second ward	16	4
Third ward	23	0
Fourth ward	21	4
Total	75	17

Robert's majority, 58.

MANITOU.

The primary election at Manitou was attended by a comparative large number. The polls were kept open at the town hall for several hours and every republican who desired had an opportunity to vote. The following delegates to the county convention were elected.

John L. Rand, M. F. Bowers, S. H. Caldwell, Isaac Davis and H. H. Grafton.

COLORADO CITY.

The primary election at Colorado City was probably the most exciting of any held in the county yesterday. There was a spirited and exciting contest over the choice of delegates, and considerable interest was manifested in the result. The primary took place at the school house and was called to order shortly after 2 o'clock by Mr W. H. Pennell. The following persons were selected as judges of the election: R. Smith, A. B. Jackson and M. H. Pennell. The persons who were chosen as delegates from this precinct were John P. Robnett, Anthony Bolt and John H. Mather. Several votes were cast for Messrs M. H. Pennell, R. Smith, H. Sharp and Adam Hill.

FLORISSANT.

At Florissant the primary was well attended, though it was marked by not a single contest. It was held at the store of Castello & Wilson, and was called to order shortly after 2 o'clock. Mr. T. E. Donell was elected chairman and Mr C. L. Wilson secretary. The meeting at once proceeded to the choice of two delegates to represent the precinct in the county convention. Messrs. F. F. Castello and T. F. Houghton were unanimously elected delegates.

Regarding the complexion of the delegates who were chosen yesterday, it may be stated almost positively that they will [illegible] the interests of the offices of county clerk, treasurer, assessor, coroner and surveyor who are all republicans. Mr. Len Jackson appears to have no opposition in his candidacy for sheriff, and his nomination by the convention, it is stated, will be made by acclamation.

For county commissioner the delegates are probably divided between Messrs Woodward and Plumb, though the present incumbent, Mr David McShane, who is a democrat, has several staunch friends among them. Owing to the fact that Mr Plumb will enter the convention with a stronger following from the Divide than Mr. Woodward, his chances for receiving the nomination [illegible]

Runaway in Louisville.

Louisville, October 15.—There has been a great excitement [illegible] day over the big run on the Carbonate bank, one of the largest in the city. Mr Mitchell, the cashier was in Denver yesterday, and sent up a large amount of money, which saved the bank from having to [illegible] The run was caused by one William Fletcher, who by some is supposed to be insane, and who is an enemy of the concern. For several days past he has been going among the thoroughfares of citizens in the county, telling them the bank was insolvent and would close in a few days. The report spread fast and [illegible] Yesterday morning a large crowd of depositors gathered in carriages and on the shore, and when they were opened at 9 o'clock the anticipated rush began and continued without cessation until 2 p. m., when there was not a depositor in front of the place now. Individuals came singly from various parts of the city, holding certificates of deposit, and when [illegible] the run collapsed. Not a single merchant or business man drew out his funds, and nearly all of them displayed confidence in the bank by depositing large amounts. The deposits from this class aggregated a larger amount than was ever before received in a single day. The management declared a placard early in the day announcing that the bank would remain open until 5 o'clock to meet the demands, which had the effect of reassuring many fractious depositors. An attorney of William Fletcher, the man who started the false reports about the bank, was [illegible] appropriately [illegible] and created intense amusement. There was no occasion whatever for the run and the [illegible] grew out of the [illegible] of the 1st of October. Lynching and [illegible] are freely discussed and French [illegible] he may be summarily dealt with. The bank will open Monday more strongly if possible than before the run. The resources of the bank according to a statement published October 11 are $1,090,522.05.

Loan Frauds Exposed.

San Francisco, October 15.—A number of protests have been prepared, to be presented to Michael F. Tarsey, Cal[illegible] representative on the republican committee for [illegible] before the second district convention. The draft calls the attention of the committee to the advantages to be derived from adding the next democratic convention in this city. It represents that California is close, state, and the result in Nevada and Oregon is always in doubt and that the stumping of the leading men in the party might [illegible] the Pacific coast electoral vote for the democrats. It is also urged that San Francisco never yet has had a national convention of any party, and that delegates west of the Missouri river would [illegible] to [illegible] that the convention assemble here.

Parsons Demands His Liberty.

Chicago October 15.—Albert R. Parsons, the condemned anarchist, who some time since [illegible] appeal to the American people for funds to the associated press to-night the substance of a letter which was written to Governor Oglesby. In it he informs the governor that he is aware that hundreds of thousands of people are signing a petition to have the sentence of himself and comrades commuted to imprisonment. He asks the governor to go over the record and determine whether or not the verdict is guilty as charged and convicted. He determines the proposed execution as judicial murder and says if he is executed he wishes to be [illegible] manly. If guilty he will meet death calmly but under no circumstances will he accept commutation to imprisonment. He concludes, "In the name of the American people I demand my right my [illegible] constitutional [illegible] inalienable right to liberty."

No Prize Found.

London, October 15.—The gunboats sent out to search for the British gunboat Wasp, which is supposed to be lost in a recent typhoon while on a voyage from Singapore for Shanghai, have returned. They have found nothing of the vessel.

Not the Congressman.

San Francisco October 15.—Some of the eastern papers received here have confounded Congressman W. W. Morrow, of this city, with Robert F. Morrow, the millionaire street railway owner now on trial for alleged jury bribery. Congressman Morrow is in no way related to the defendant on trial.

TURNING THE TABLES.

The Fight Among the Knights Likely to be Decisive.

Resignation of Barry From the Executive Board

Depends on the Change Now Under Consideration.

Another Triumph for the Administration Expected.

The Knights' Assembly.

Minneapolis, Minn., October 15.—A report got out this morning that General Master Workman Powderly had sent in his peremptory resignation, created a sensation. It was not generally believed. Powderly was seen early. He denied having written any resignation. Regarding the lack of harmony among the general executive board, which had been given out as the cause of the resignation, Powderly refuses to explain. Messrs. Hayley and Barry, members of the executive board who it is alleged have created this discord, were actively engaged in canvassing their case, and it was intimated that probably on case the matter came to a vote in the assembly they would carry at least a hundred delegates with them. Since the convention first opened here Barry and Bailey have been known to advocate every measure presented by the anarchists. There has been strikingly true of Barry. He took sides against the administration when the anarchist question was being discussed last week, and made a very sensational speech supplementary to the resolution that the general assembly protest against the hanging of the condemned Chicago anarchists. He also advocated the side of the "antis" in the fight over the Chicago stock yards strike. In each case the "antis" were defeated by a heavy vote. It is pretty evident that Barry has been "making" the fight not because he cared whether the measures went through or not, but to antagonize the administration from personal reasons. There is no doubt Barry and Bailey have a good many warm friends among the delegates to the convention, and that they have been working hard to gain more. They knew a fight was to be made to get rid of them in the [illegible] session of [illegible] making preparations but none too soon. It is now on, and a very bitter fight it promises to be. There was little doubt expressed to-day, however, but that the "antis" would be routed, though what the net result of the combat would be could not be guessed.

Notwithstanding the knights' press committee would make no report this noon, it is learned the general assembly spent the forenoon in a red hot discussion over a resolution introduced last night, changing the manner of appointing the executive board, which was for the purpose of providing a way to get rid of Barry and Bailey. It is understood no decision was reached, and that the excitement would continue until the battle was decisively lost or won.

The committee on the general assembly to-night is unchanged and it is now thought the examination of the charges against members of the executive board will be completed before Tuesday. Powderly denies that he has written his resignation, but it is generally believed that if not already written its execution is imminent.

Pueblo Items.

Pueblo, October 15.—There is a report from Ludania that men in the Santa Fe railroad shops are on a strike owing to a reduction of hours.

The graders of the Missouri Pacific railway are now at work in the city limits of Pueblo.

The democratic convention of Pueblo county nominated for sheriff, Joe Anderson; clerk, Hon. J. B. Garber; treasurer, Chas Wilson; superintendent of schools, Col. J. C. Moore; assessor, Clarence Patterson; commissioners, William Crook and J. C. Pease.

A Murder-Mystery.

Los Angeles Cal., October 14.—A few days ago the burned remains of a man were found in the ruins of a barn at Compton near this city. The body was burnt beyond recognization but it was believed to be that of Dr. Harlan, a well known dentist and sporting man of this city. A girl named Hattie Woolstein, who came here recently from Peoria, Ill., was arrested on suspicion, and last night her sister Minnie Woolstein, made a statement that Harlan had been the cause of Hattie's ruin and that on the night of the murder the pair went riding in the direction of Compton, when Hattie threatened to expose Harlan's conduct. Harlan has a wife and family in this city, and Hattie's threats so frightened him, for sister states that he cut himself in the carriage. His companion feared the results of being found with the dead body so she took it to a barn, set fire to the building and escaped.

Railroad Reception.

Denver October 15. Major D. J. Pfaltzen, agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road at this point, today opened the handsome new offices of that road at 1758 Larimer. An elegant collation was served to about [illegible] hundred merchants and business men of Colorado at which in the neighborhood of a thousand bottles of champagne were opened. The reception lasted from 12 to 6 this afternoon.

The Cowboy Tournament.

Denver October 15.—The cowboy tournament at the exposition today differed but little from that of yesterday. The agents of the humane society were on hand to promptly stop the performance should anything be done to give them the idea that brutality was being practiced. The only accident was to Troy Franklin who was thrown from his horse knocked insensible and at first thought killed. He recovered shortly and was conveyed to a hotel, and it is hoped will recover in a few days so as to be about.

FRANK W. HOWBERT, Sec'y.

There are now eight regularly announced candidates before the people of Arapahoe county for sheriff. Each of these candidates [illegible] certain qualities of strength, which makes the result of the [illegible] election [illegible] considered very [illegible] Party lines in Arapahoe this fall, [illegible] appearance, will be very [illegible] drawn.

No true friend of organized labor can withhold his support from Mr. Powderly in the struggle which are now being waged against [illegible] bers of Knights of Labor. His counsel and advice have been invariably based on common sense and sound judgment and have commended themselves to every lover of true manhood and justice.

A great deal of unnecessary discussion is being indulged in by the newspapers regarding the proper choice of a commander-in-chief by the Grand Army of the Republic. They have endeavored to attach to it a political aspect which the election for such an office has never, and should never possess. The Grand Army has done a good work as a non-political organization. Its career of usefulness will be soon ended if it allows political motives to influence the choice of its department officers.

In 1874, when the [illegible] was merged into the postoffice in 1878, it is stated that the cost of the service has been so diminished that a message can be sent from Cape Horne, on the English coast, to Algiers, a distance of 3000 miles, for one franc, or twenty cents. In three days of gigantic telegraph deals, and Western Union monopoly a statement of the character of the above can hardly be believed, and yet it is a striking illustration of the possible benefits which would accrue to this country from the successful operation of a system of postal telegraphy.

The New York Tribune in speaking of the recent incident at Nashville last Sunday says:

"Technically, of course, Emma Abbott was out of order when she arose in a Nashville church last Sunday and answered the clergyman who was indulging in a wholesale denunciation of theatres and actors. But every one will admit that she had great provocation and the enthusiastic way in which the congregation applauded her shows that the clergyman did not in this case reflect the sentiments of his church. The fact is that sweeping statements of this kind are made with altogether too great frequency in the Christian pulpit.

A PARTY WITHOUT A POLICY.

The democratic party to day is a party practically without a united policy with regard to any one question of national importance. Its success has been the more to the errors and mistakes of its opponents than to its advocacy of any sound principle of government. The issue between Blaine and Cleveland was a personal one. It was a question as to who was the most honest man and who could be the most safely trusted with the responsibilities and duties of the executive office. The republican party endeavored to make protection the issue in 1884, and the strength it urged in Mr Blaine's behalf was its firm advocacy of a protective tariff. The democratic party evaded the tariff question entirely and their campaign was conducted entirely against the public record and private character of Mr. Blaine. The party leaders have now set themselves to work to devise a plan for conducting the campaign of 1888. The task which they have undertaken to perform is a more difficult one, than they had at first anticipated. They recognize the fact that the party's only hope of success lies in its adopting certain definite ideas with reference to national affairs. Mr Cleveland's record on the 1st, civil service reform, and the silver question is not one which will commend itself to the masses of the party as worthy of endorsement, and yet his renomination is now virtually assured. Mr Cleveland assumed the presidency with a determination to commit his party to the cause of civil service reform. It is now generally known how dismally he has failed. Even if he did make several week appointments during the early period of his administration yet in the years he has faithfully tried to carry out this policy. His failure to do so in several instances has been due to the opposition of those of his party from whom he expected the most earnest and cordial support. On the question of civil service reform we find the president severely opposed by many of the influential men of his party. On the silver question he essentials and west in the democratic party divided with no indication of party [illegible] reconciling them of the end. The question of revenue reform is also one upon which the democratic party is far from being united. Taking these different questions of national importance as a whole it is very difficult to see what it can advocate that the democratic party can derive sustaining the presidential contest of 1888. Since 1872 when it declared the war a failure, the party has had no definite policy. Time and again have its leaders endeavored to make the party's representative of principles but they have been unable to find any principles of government upon which they could go before the country as a united and solid party. It remains to be seen whether the present party leaders can accomplish a task which so many before them have tried and failed.

LITERARY NOTES.

A naval encounter in the war of 1812 between the "Enterprise" and the "Boxer," is the theme of a poem which Henry Abbey will contribute to the November American Magazine.

Dr. Carl [illegible], of the Harvard college gymnasium, will contribute to the November number of Scribner's Magazine a richly illustrated article on the "Physical Characteristics of the Athlete."

Dr. Rudolph Cronau's novel, "The Graysons," will begin in the November Cottage, as well as Mr. Cable's three part story, "At Large." The numbers will contain also a short story by William [illegible] Bishop, "A Little Lizard."

Felix L. Oswald, in the November Lippincott's, will have a sketch entitled "A Modern Spartanism," in which he discusses the struggle and thrilling exploits of a Mexican bandit, who has for years defied the authorities and has succeeded in surrounding himself with a band of [illegible] outlaws.

Mr. Oliver Bisley Seward, the adopted [illegible] of the ex-secretary, will tell in the November number of Scribner's Magazine a little known [illegible] of the diplomatic history of our country, with the abortive [illegible] with Lincoln for the post of the [illegible] of St. Thomas.

Work upon the Midland passenger depot at Manitou is being prosecuted as vigorously as possible When completed it will present a very neat and tasty appearance, being built of white pine with red facings and trimmings. The company are also building a large platform in connection with the depot, which will be of great accommodation during the increased period of travel next summer.

On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs E. S. Bumstead were tendered a hearty surprise by friends who had called to assist them in celebrating their China wedding. Though taken unaware, Mr. and Mrs Bumstead proved equal to the task of entertaining their [illegible] so agreeable to all that the time for saying good-bye arrived much too soon Before departing, Mrs Older on behalf of the unmuzzled though welcome guests, presented the host and hostess with a handsome set of China consisting of upwards of 100 pieces

We feel safe in assuring all who attend the presentation of "Called Back" at the opera house to-morrow evening, that [illegible] Mr Grismer and Miss Phoebe Davies have achieved a national reputation by their effective impersonations of the leading roles Mr Grismer's dramatization of Hugh Conway's celebrated novel, which will be produced to-morrow evening, follows more closely the thread of the narrative than any which have been attempted. The situations are so vivid, and the climaxes so thrilling, that it gives to the presentation an interest and charm peculiarly and distinctively [illegible] Mr. Grismer and Miss Davies enter into the spirit of the play with such earnestness and feeling that it makes their work intensely realistic. The supporting company is a strong one, embracing several representative artists In Called Back, the theatre goers of this city will recognize a finished dramatic production, given by a thoroughly first class company

Through the courtesy of the Colorado Midland railway, a special train was placed at the service of the county commissioners yesterday for the purpose of giving them an opportunity of inspecting the changes which have been made in the Ute Pass road incident to the construction of the railroad.
